| 7             | MR, KEPHART: Yes,   | 7  | reference to — we talked to the bench about whether or not                     |

| 10            | THE COURT: That's correct., Okay.   | 10 | that she gave to the police department,  |
| 11            | State?  | 11 | THE COURT: The tape recorded voluntary   |
| 12            | MR. KEPHART: Your Honor, basically the issue here                               | 12 | statement?   |
| 13            | is what do we call the statement that the defendant made in                     | 13 | MR, KEPHART: Yes. And what we're talking about                                 |
| 14            | this particular case when we're talking to this expert and we're                | 14 | here with the use of her expert is her prior testimony,                        |
| 15            | referencing his purpose and what he's looking at. And the                       | 15 | statements that she gave her and testified to and was subject                  |
| 16            | only thing that we could think of is what it is called, it's his —              | 16 | to cross-examination and directed by the defense I mean by                     |
| 17            | her prior testimony. The interesting point about the Byforcl             | 17 | her attorney, and it's prior testimony. And under the statute,                 |
| 18            | decision is that the very argument that Mr. Schieck made                        | 18 | prior testimony is admissible if you fit within those guidelines,              |
| 19            | yesterday he maci $^{\mathbf{g}}$ in the Byford decision and the Supreme | 19 | as pointed out here in the Byford decision, but also under the          |
| 20            | Court said no to that.  | 20 | statutory provisions. And then Flinches is the one that actually |
| 21            | He contended in the Byford decision that the use of               | 21 | discussed that any further.  |
| 22            | Robert Byford's prior testimony constituted an improper                         | 22 | So we — we're of the position that if you — if we're                           |
| 23            | comment on his decision not to testify at the second trial, and                 | 23 | not allowed to call it what it is, then we're in a situation where             |
| 24            | the Supreme Court said no. And he made that same argument                       | 24 | I believe it would be confusing, may even be misleading to the                 |
|               |   |    |  |
| I             | XV11-6  |    | XVII-8   |
|               | here is that the use of the word "prior testimony" with this                    | 1  | is and questions were some here will be by the inter of                        |
| 1             | here is that the use of the word "prior testimony" with this                    |    | jury and questions were gonna be — will be by the jury of                      |
| 2             | expert is common is commenting on her Fifth Amendment                           |    | what other statement is she talking are you talking about?                     |
| 3             | right here not to testify, and that's incorrect.                                | 3  | And the statement is her prior testimony, so —                                 |
| 4             | Under the statute as cited in the Byford decision,                       | 4  | And the defense provided that to their expert. He                              |
| 5             | which is interesting that they the way it was used, you                         | 5  | has it in his report that he reviewed the prior testimony of the               |
| 6             | understand that in reading this, is that typically the statements               | 6  | previous trial. So and we would hope that in their his                         |
| 7             | or the prior testimonies being introduced by the State, in this                 | 7  | expert opinion, if he's reviewing these things he would've at                  |
| 8             | particular case the co-defendant introduced it. And they found                  | 8  | least looked at I mean he put it in his report. How come we                    |
| 9             | that it nevertheless their his introduction versus the State's                  | 9  | cannot cross on that? He termed it that, he used those words,                  |
| 10            | introduction that his prior testimony was admissible under 51-                  | 10 | And he went one step further and said prior testimony from                     |
| 11            | 325, and they showed how it fit And certainly here you can't                    | 11 | the previous trial.  |
| 12            | argue that it's not admissible here.  | 12 | So we're just trying to use the words that are                                 |
| 13            | But the issue that we have here is that in the Byford                    | 13 | appropriate here and what it is being called. And we've                        |
| 14            | decision the Supreme Court asked the decision as to whether                     | 14 | already I think we've already overcome any requirement of                      |
| 15            | or not the term referred to "prior testimony" is being used by                  | 15 | whether or not it's admissible or not. It's just now I think the               |
| 16            | the State 'cause that would be us trying to introduce this —                    | 16 | issue is what do we call it?   |
| 17            | as a way of commenting on the defendant's silence in the                        | 17 | And I appreciate the Court giving me an opportunity                            |
| 18            | second trial, and they found not,   | 18 | to address the Court again on this, and I'll submit it based on                |
| 19            | And I'll tell you, the term "prior testimony" was used                          | 19 | that.  |
| 20            | throughout that trial when after he testified. But                              | 20 | THE COURT: Okay.   |
| 21            | commenting would be getting up and saying well, she didn't                      | 21 | MR. SCHIECK: Thank you, Your Honor,  |
| 22            | testify here. You know, why don't we hear from it now, why                      | 22 | I think the important point to be made is we're not                            |
| 23            | didn't we hear from her here, that type of thing. And that                      | 23 | at this stage contesting that her prior testimony was not                      |
| 24            | didn't happen,  | 24 | admissible in the State's case in chief. They chose, for                       |
|               |   |    |  |
|               |   |    |  |
|               |   |    |  |

| 1  | whatever reason, not to attempt to admit that testimony. So     | 1  | MR, KEPHART: Your Honor, it's interesting that Mr.                |
|----|---|----|---|
| 2  | that has not been heard by the jury by their choice.            | 2  | Schieck talks about the position of what time the State has to    |
| 3  | Clearly under Byford and Funches. that previous   | 3  | introduce this type of evidence because in the original           |
| 4  | testimony could've been presented during the cases State's      | 4  | Supreme Court opinions that dealt with the use of prior           |
| 5  | case in chief. They didn't do that. So to refer to something    | 5  | testimony under the Harris decision and the Edmonds rule, is      |
| 6  | that is not in evidence before this jury is because they didn't | 6  | that they were it was being used systematically as a rebuttal     |
| 7  | put it in evidence.   | 7  | device. And not until 1982 when the State of Nevada               |
| 8  | Secondly, if now that they've rested their case in              | 8  | addressed that very issue after it was used in a case called –    |
| 9  | chief they can't supplement the evidence that's been presented  | 9  | Turner versus State as rebuttal, they went ahead and said can     |
| 10 | to this jury until such time as there's any rebuttal testimony, | 10 | it also be used in the case the State's case in chief. And        |
| 11 | If Ms. Lobato elects, as is her right, to not testify           | 11 | that's at the point in time where they said yes, it could         |
| 12 | under the Fifth Amendment, she cannot be compelled both         | 12 | because it is prior testimony and it's admissible as basically    |
| 13 | under the Fifth Amendment and by statute to testify, and        | 13 | non-hearsay if you fit the rules that are required under NRS 51   |
| 14 | invokes that right, then the question's going to arise whether  | 14 | through 25.   |
| 15 | or not the State can use that testimony in their rebuttal case. | 15 | And so for Mr. Schieck to say oh, we can't even use               |
| 16 | Whether or not they can seek to read that to the jury in their  | 16 | it in rebuttal, I disagree with that. I think it can be used at a |
| 17 | rebuttal case, to which we would take the position they can't   | 17 | point at any point in time by in this particular case it          |
| 18 | because it's not rebuttal, anything the defense has presented.  | 18 | would be if the declarant is unavailable, if she's choosing not   |
| 19 | And so by referring to prior testimony in previous              | 19 | to testify obviously the rules are is that she's unavailable. If  |
| 20 | proceedings, and Dr. — excuse me, Mr. Turvey said that he       | 20 | the proceeding was different the party again assume the           |
| 21 | had read the testimony of Dr. Simms, and was very clear that    | 21 | former testimony's offer was a party or is imprivity with one of  |
| 22 | he has not read either the testimony or the statement of the    | 22 | the former parties and issues and statute are the same, we're     |
| 23 | defendant in this case, and that he doesn't read their          | 23 | using it.   |
|    | statements when he's examining the information that's given     | 24 | But they provided that information to their expert.               | to him to examine, that his job is to look at the crime scene 1 2 collection, the crime scene process and the reconstruction, the 3 areas that he's qualified to testify about. If they want to ask 4 him questions about whether or not it would make a difference 5 in his opinion because the defendant has said previously that she was in the car and had blood on her, whether that would 7 effect his discussion of luminol or phenolphthalein, that's one thing. But to specifically refer to the fact that she testified in 8 9 the previous proceeding, if she doesn't testify in this 10 proceeding is going to clearly implicate that she invoked her 11 Fifth Amendment right as a comment on that invocation. 12 And Byford, when it was reversed the first time was 13 for a Fifth Amendment violation, even though the defendant 14 testified in this case. There can still be a Fifth Amendment 15 violation because there was a comment made concerning that 16 he had never testified before. And so it's very slippery slope 17 that we have when we start talking about testimony of the 18 defendant in a certain proceeding and whether he testifies 19 here didn't testify here or testified before. 20 So I think the prudent course is to simply refer to it 21 as previously stated or previous statement, and not refer to as 22 testimony from a previous proceeding that is not in evidence before this jury because the State chose not to put it in their

And when their expert's up here talking about physical evidence and that type of thing and how he's interested in people that are at the crime scene, but yet he can't even say that he even looked at the defendant's own statement I think is good for rebuttal. And we're also talking about a statement where she clarifies her original statement to the police when she testified, and talks in depth about how she got in the car with blood on her clothes and goes in further with our crossexamination.

So to call it something other than previous testimony is in an event -- in light of the strategy the defense has been going through in this trial, that the State hadn't done certain things, hadn't collected certain things. Their own expert got up there to say oh, the way the trial's going none, I don't know if I'm gonna see — what I'm gonna see tomorrow.

By that strategy, that's basically telling the jury there's things that we're hiding from them. And when I gotta stand up there and say another statement which they do not have, then what are we doing? Are we inviting their argument that we -- that something additional that we're preventing them from seeing? This is her previous testimony, and I think that the jury can make the finding that it's previous testimony and there's no obligation that she has to testify. She's gonna be instructed -- the jury's gonna be instructed on that. And

I don't remember the exact date the materials were sent to me,-I'm often contacted by people inquiring about cases, and that -         - the date that we made contact is not the date of hire., So within about three weeks I would say that I was hired,         Q So by September 2005?         A       I would say that's accurate, yes,         Q Okay, And when you were hired what were you asked to do?         A I was asked to do two things, to at the very least.         One was to examine the physical evidence in the case to determine what, if anything, could be made of it. What had been done, what had not been done in terms of testing, and what could still be done. And then probably most importantly, determine what could be said about the crime, based on the evidence that we had at the moment. And then also I was asked to look at the issue of the motivation and examine what motive might be present.   |

We're not finding — there's three things we're looking at, the victim, the suspect, and the crime scene. And then the fourth thing, the fourth issue being the vehicle, and you're trying to find connections between all of them. | 1        | A No, I was not.  | 1        | do them on live crime scenes.  |
| 2        | Q Okay, And so the fact that somebody else was at   | 2        | Q Okay. How many tests have you conducted  |
| 3        | the crime scene did not believe they were blood. You're   | 3        | regarding false positives, what gives false positives?   |
| 4        | saying that based on the photographs he was wrong?  | 4        | A I have maintained currency with the literature, but I  |
| 5        | A I would be very interested to see any testimony or a  |          | do not I have not made the test myself,  |
| 6        | report from somebody saying the drops that I'm talking about  | 6        | Q So everything you're testing about or excuse me -  |
| 7        | are not blood. That person would be in a lot of trouble, I  | 7        | - testifying about regarding the luminol and the   |
| 8        | think,  | 8        | phenolphthalein is just based on what you've read?   |
| 9        | Q They'd be in a lot of trouble with you because they   | 9        | A No, it's based on what I — my education, my  |
| 10       | conflict with your opinion?   | 10       | training, and my experience.   |
| 11       | A No, they'd be in a lot of trouble with the IEI I think  | 11       | Q Okay. So your education, what you learned in the   |
| 12       | anybody else any other reasonable person looking at that  | 12       | classroom?   |
| 13       | saying it's not blood or not possibly blood, I think it defies  | 13       | A No, Again, you're mischaracterizing my testimony.  |
| 14       | belief,   | 14       | My formal education, getting my masters of science in forensic   |
| 15       | Well, you saw the testimony in this case from Dan   | 15       | science was not just a classroom program, it was very much a   |
| 16       | Ford?   | 16       | heavily intensive applied program. So to say it's just a   |
| 17       | A That's correct,   | 17       | classroom program, that's that really misstates what I said.   |
| 18       | Okay And so you disagree when he said that it was   | 18       | Q Okay. But you just said you're basing it mostly in   |
| 19       | not blood droplets?   | 19       | the literature?  |
| 20       | A I don't think that he said that I don't think we went   | 20       | A No, I did not. You're misstating my testimony. I   |
| 21       | through and looked at each individual drop that we're talking   | 21       | said it was based on my education, my training, and my   |
| 22       | about here. I think we'd have to have him come back, and I'm  | 22       | experience, which includes not just my conversations with  |
| 23       | sure I hope that he does come back and confirm exactly  | 23       | other criminalists that I've had over the years, not just my   |
| 24       | what he's talking about, because there are very clear areas   | 24       | review of the literature, riot just my many hours of training in   |

| 1        | where there are blood droplets right next to and within the   | 1        | the classroom and in mock scenes, but also in cases that I've  |
| 2        | footwear patterns I think it's very clear.  | 2        | worked where luminal has been used and applied by others in  |
| 3        | Q Okay, But you're basing that solely on what you   | 3        | my presence or as a part of the case record. So it's a little  |
| 4        | saw, there's no confirmatory tests that was done?   | 4        | more extensive than what you're suggesting.  |
| 5        | A Yeah, I don't think it's just like there's no   | 5        | Q Okay,, Now with regard to the luminol and the  |
| 6        | confirmatory test on the fact that it's blood on the footwear   | 6        | phenolphthalein, it's your testimony that you cannot say that  |
| 7        | impressions, I don't think it's really necessary. It's pretty   | 7        | the car was cleaned, correct?  |
| 8        | obvious it's blood. And to suggest otherwise is sort of   | 8        | A I think there's evidence that it wasn't because  |
| 9        | irresponsible. a  | 9        | there's an absence of indication of cleaning. And I testified to   |
| 10       | Q Okay. So but the fact that there's positive lumina'   | 10       | what those elements were yesterday.  |
| 11       | tests in the car, positive reaction in the car for luminol and a  | 11       | Q Okay. What is the absence? Tell me again.  |
| 12       | positive phenolphthalein test, which are both presumptive tests   | 12       | A Again, it would be the absence of evidence of  |
| 13       | for blood, that you cannot say that it's possible there was   | 13       | bleach, the absence of a false positive reaction with the luminol with a substance that can be identified as bleach, it      |
| 14       | blood there?  | 14       | luminol with a substance that can be identified as bleach, it  |
| 1516 | A You're really inappropriately comparing apples and  | 15       | would be the absence of the presence of dirt and grime onthe surfaces of the vehicle, an absence of wiping patterns, and |
| 1617 | oranges here, We're not looking at a physical stain that has a shape, size, color and an evident texture and an association | 1617 | no indication from any of the people who testified who   |
| 1718 | with other bloody areas. You're talking about a lumina' test  | 17       | examined the vehicle that there was evidence of cleaning.  |
| 1019 | which creates a false presumptive positive with many items.   | 10       | Q What about the testimony that it appeared that the   |
| 20       | So you're inappropriately making a comparison where there   | 20       | floral seat cover had been laundered, had been recently  |
| 20       | isn't one to be made.   | 20       | laundered?   |
| 21       | Q How many tests with luminol have you conducted?   | 21       | A I'm interested to know how that was determined. I  |
| 22       | A Again, I don't conduct luminol tests myself, but I  | 23       | it's an interesting opinion or theory, but I don't see how it  |

|    | Q Okay. So explain what you mean by the cleaning                 | 4  | A I certainly can. There needs to be multiple repeated            |
| 5  | and how you — you get a negative result for luminal and          | 5  | attempts at cleaning with heavy cleaners, such as a               |

| 7  | A I've said this a number of times, I think, and that is         | 7  | industrial level cleaners, and it has to be repeated to multiple. |
| 8  | that I hope I'm being perfectly clear here. You can get a        | 8  | Now on a hard surface or nonporous surface, that may do the       |
| 9  | false positive, it can be something other than blood, and        | 9  | job. On a porous surface, it's unlikely that even that level of   |
| 10 | phenolphthalein and luminal can get a false positive for these   | 10 | cleaning will get it out enough to the point where luminol        |

| 15 | the confirmatory test and you don't get a reaction, it's not     | 15 | there that reacted with the luminal or the phenolphthalein but    |

| 1   | A No, it's not belief of that. Again, we're looking at   | 1  | under, I'm not out to prove anyone guilty, anyone in this —   |   |
| 2   | photographs that actually show what I believe to be the paper  | 2  | I'm looking at everything as potentially exculpatory.   |   |
| 3   | towels are. And we have them admitting to throwing away  | 3  | Q Right, And yesterday you also testified the sexual  |   |

| 5   | looking at one thing out of context, we're looking at a total  | 5  | should've all been collected and tested a long time ago,  |   |

| 7   | Q So you're judging the credibility of these witnesses   | 7  | A It should have,   |   |

Q Well, what if — 4 Not at the end of the pier. But I think you would go -- came out with guidelines in 1999, very clear, very 5 А 5 А back through the entire story, frame by frame. You'd get the specific, every scene, every time. I think there's a lot of room for 12 that Bob was at the end of the pier and you're the investigator 12 judgment. Q Right. I mean let's think if it was Lake Mead, Are 13 13 out there, how do you go about investigating what had happened when the body washes up? 14 you gonna drown [sic] the entire Lake Mead? 14 15 А I would think this is criminal investigation 101. 15 А Drain the lake? No, certainly not. Again, like I said, 16 You're gonna take a look at the statement and you're gonna depends on the size of the lake, it depends on the context. 16 17 go through it again frame by frame, and look for every place 17 You might send divers down ---that the person --Q What if this pier — 18 18 19 Q Okay. But at the time same time I wasn't just talking about the water. There's the 3 that the police find the body and it washes up, do they have body of water, then there's the area around the body of water, 4 4 5 any of this information? and there's the area that gives you access to the body of 5 6 water. If you don't do it that 10 10 where you can make that association right away, I've worked 11 way you're operating against national guidelines. 11 12 Q So even though the body washes up you're just 12 cases where you gotta work hard to make that association. But you -13 gonna assume it's a homicide. Okay. | 4            | A Well, I've had a number of cases and there's a                    | 4        | A Certainly.   |
| 5            | number of cases cited in the literature where you have              | 5        | Q testified on cross-examination?                                |
| 6            | offender — male offenders who are attacking male victims, and       | 6        | A It does.   |
| 7            | it's essentially a homosexual act, maybe against a child, maybe     | 7        | Q And how so?  |
|              | against an adult. But they don't want to think of themselves        | 8        | A In this particular case, I associate the footwear              |
| 9            | as being homosexual, so they cut off the victim's genitals to       | 9        | patterns with the offender, or with the act of the crime itself. |
| 10           | give them the appearance or so they can simulate a sexual act       | 10       | In this particular case, whoever flipped over this indicates     |
| 11           | with a more female looking person. It's a fantasy component.        | 11       | that the footwear impressions occurred and then at some point    |
| 12           | Q Well, these four reasons that you've listed here, this            | 12       | then the cardboard was put on top of the body. So in terms       |
| 13           | is this isn't exclusive only to males, is it, it's just —           | 13       | of being good temporal evidence, evidence of timing, this        |
| 14           | A It is not.  | 14       | shows that whoever put the stuff on top of the body then         |
| 15           | Q — when these crimes are committed, these are the                  | 15       | walked out of the scene, because we already have bloody          |
| 16           | four basic reasons why the genitals are mutilated post-             | 16       | footwear patterns at the scene once the body is being covered    |
| 17           | mortem?   | 17       | with debris. So temporally this associates the footwear          |
| 18           | A They're not the basic reasons, but they're the most               | 18       | patterns with the crime.   |
| 19           | common I would say.   | 19       | Q Is there, or is there not, a spacial association with          |
| 20           | Q The most common?  | 20       | respect to this being found on the body?                         |
|              |   | 21       | A I believe so. I believe this is found in the area              |

| 3           | A There absolutely is.  | 3        | BY MS. ZALKIN:  |
| 4           | Q And what would that be?   | 4        | Q Finally, Mr. Turvey, you testified on cross that Ms.  |
| 5           | A A cause of death is the way that a body interacted  | 5        | Greenberger contacted you but that Ms. Greenberger did not  |
| 6           | with its environment in such a way that caused its demise.  | 6        | hire you?   |
| 7           | And that's typically a medical finding, although there are  | 7        | A Well, she didn't actually — well, not that day. It  |

SCHIECK: The next is the State had requestedthe Court make judicial notice that Ashley Lobato was notlisted in the original or in the notice of alibi or alibis. I'm notsure whether or not more than one was filed previous to thefirst trial, that she was not listed as an alibi witness on thosetwo filings.We objected because there is no requirement that adefendant list every possible known witness to an alibi, onlythose alibi witnesses they intend to introduce at the time oftrial. The Court indicated that the objection would beoverruled and allowed the State's request and did take judicialnotice of that filing, which omitted Ashley Lobato. She waslisted in the filing that we filed nearly a year ago now, listingher as an alibi witness.THE COURT: The request was to take judicial noticethat she was first noticed as a defendant's witness on October20, 2005.   |
